1. Money 20/20 USA

October 26-29, 2025 | Las Vegas, Nevada, USA

The Venetian Resort

Main Language: English | Expected Attendees: 12,000

The world's largest fintech event brings together 12,000+ attendees from across the global financial ecosystem. This is where the most significant fintech deals and partnerships are announced.

Why You Should Attend This Conference

Money 20/20 USA is where the global fintech industry's biggest deals are announced and strategic partnerships are formed. The Las Vegas setting creates a unique environment where executives are away from daily operations and more open to strategic conversations. With 600+ speakers and 400+ exhibitors, this represents the highest concentration of fintech decision-makers anywhere in the world. Major product launches and industry-shifting announcements happen here first.

3. Singapore Fintech Festival

November 10-14, 2025 | Singapore
Singapore Expo & Marina Bay Sands

Main Language: English | Expected Attendees: 60,000

Asia's largest fintech festival and the gateway to Asian financial markets. Over 60,000 participants from 150+ countries converge to explore the future of finance in Asia.

Why You Should Attend This Conference

Singapore Fintech Festival is the gateway to Asia's $31 trillion financial services market. Asian financial institutions operate differently from Western banks, and this event provides crucial cultural and regulatory insights for market entry. The Monetary Authority of Singapore's presence ensures direct access to regulatory guidance, while the massive scale means encountering decision-makers from markets that are otherwise difficult to penetrate.

4. Money 20/20 Europe

June 3-5, 2025 | Amsterdam, Netherlands

RAI Amsterdam Convention Centre

Main Language: English | Expected Attendees: 5,000

Europe's definitive fintech conference bringing together 5,000+ decision makers from across the European financial ecosystem. The European counterpart to the Las Vegas flagship event.

Why You Should Attend This Conference

Money 20/20 Europe serves as the European headquarters for global fintech strategy development. European regulations like PSD2 and GDPR influence global financial technology, making this event critical for understanding worldwide regulatory direction. The Amsterdam location creates a collaborative environment where European banking executives are more accessible than at their home offices, and the concentrated format ensures maximum networking efficiency.

5. Fintech Connect

December 2-3, 2025 | London, UK

ExCeL London

Main Language: English | Expected Attendees: 4,000

London's flagship fintech conference showcasing the UK's position as Europe's fintech capital. Features the latest innovations from both established players and startups.

Why You Should Attend This Conference

Fintech Connect represents the UK's fintech ecosystem at its most concentrated. Post-Brexit Britain is creating new financial regulations that could influence global markets, and this event provides early insight into those developments. London's position as a global financial center means decisions made here affect worldwide markets, and the event's timing in December makes it ideal for strategic planning conversations for the following year.
